BIOGRAPHIES OF SPEAKERS

Chris Grundy: London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine:

Chris Grundy is Lecturer in Geographical Information Systems (GIS) and coordinator of the Centre for Spatial Analysis in Public Health at the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine (LSHTM). Having got an undergraduate Degree in Civil Engineering and a Masters in GIS, he started work at LSHTM in 1993 working on the use of GIS in public health around the world. During this time Chris has had a particular interest in how the physical environment effects health and over the last 5 years or so a major part of his work has been working with the Transport and Health group looking at road injury.

Jack Hazelgrove: Chair of the Older Peoples' Council:

Jack is a retired teacher/lecturer, and currently Chair of the City's Older Peoples Council, and Chair of the Central Sussex Group of the National Federation of Bus Users. Jack is an Honorary Alderman of the City of Brighton and Hove. Other interests include chairing the local branch of the United Nations Association and Membership of the LINK - a NHS "watchdog".

Tony Green: Representative from Bricycles:

For many years Tony was a Research Fellow at the University of Sussex. Tony now works to encourage cycling for transport and leisure. Cycling is healthy, socially inclusive, equitable, pollution free and inexpensive. The cyclists' contribution to a more sustainable society deserves to be better acknowledged.

Bricycles (Brighton, Hove and District Cycling Group) is the largest cycling organisation in Brighton & Hove. Bricycles campaign for the continuing development of better conditions for cyclists which includes a city-wide 20 mph speed limit.
