Aim of the Strategy

This strategy aims to make the city safer by

- > reducing crime, disorder and anti-social behaviour;
- > reducing fear of crime;
- > reducing harm from drugs and alcohol; and
- > improving community safety

.... and so improve the quality of life for all those who live in, work in or visit Brighton & Hove.

Why we are producing the Strategy

In 2006, from a list of twenty attributes that make somewhere a good place to live, a low level of crime was the one most frequently chosen by Brighton & Hove residents. In the same survey, people ranked the level of crime in the top five of those issues that needed to be improved in the city. There has been some improvement in this position since the previous strategy when it ranked second most in need of improvement, but crime issues clearly remain of concern for local people.

Local residents in 'neighbourhood renewal areas' across the city have been involved in identifying what needs to be done to improve their neighbourhoods by feeding into their Neighbourhood Action Plans. Again, a good proportion of the actions listed in their plans concern crime and disorder issues. Community safety issues most frequently featuring in Neighbourhood Action Plans are anti-social behaviour, street condition (eg. criminal damage, graffiti, litter, etc.), alcohol misuse and drugs misuse. Most areas also flagged up the need for improved communication and working structures to carry work forward within their neighbourhood.

We are also required to produce a strategy by legislation and government guidance. The Crime and Disorder Act 1998 stipulated that following an audit of crime and disorder and consultation with local communities and communities of interest, a Strategy be published every three years and delivered by Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnerships (CDRPs) which cover local authority and policing areas. That statutory duty remains and recent guidance now requires us to produce our Strategy based on the findings of an annual Strategic Assessment and the priorities and concerns of local people and then to review and refresh the Strategy each year. This is our fourth Community Safety, Crime Reduction and Drugs Strategy and covers the period from April 2008 to March 2011.

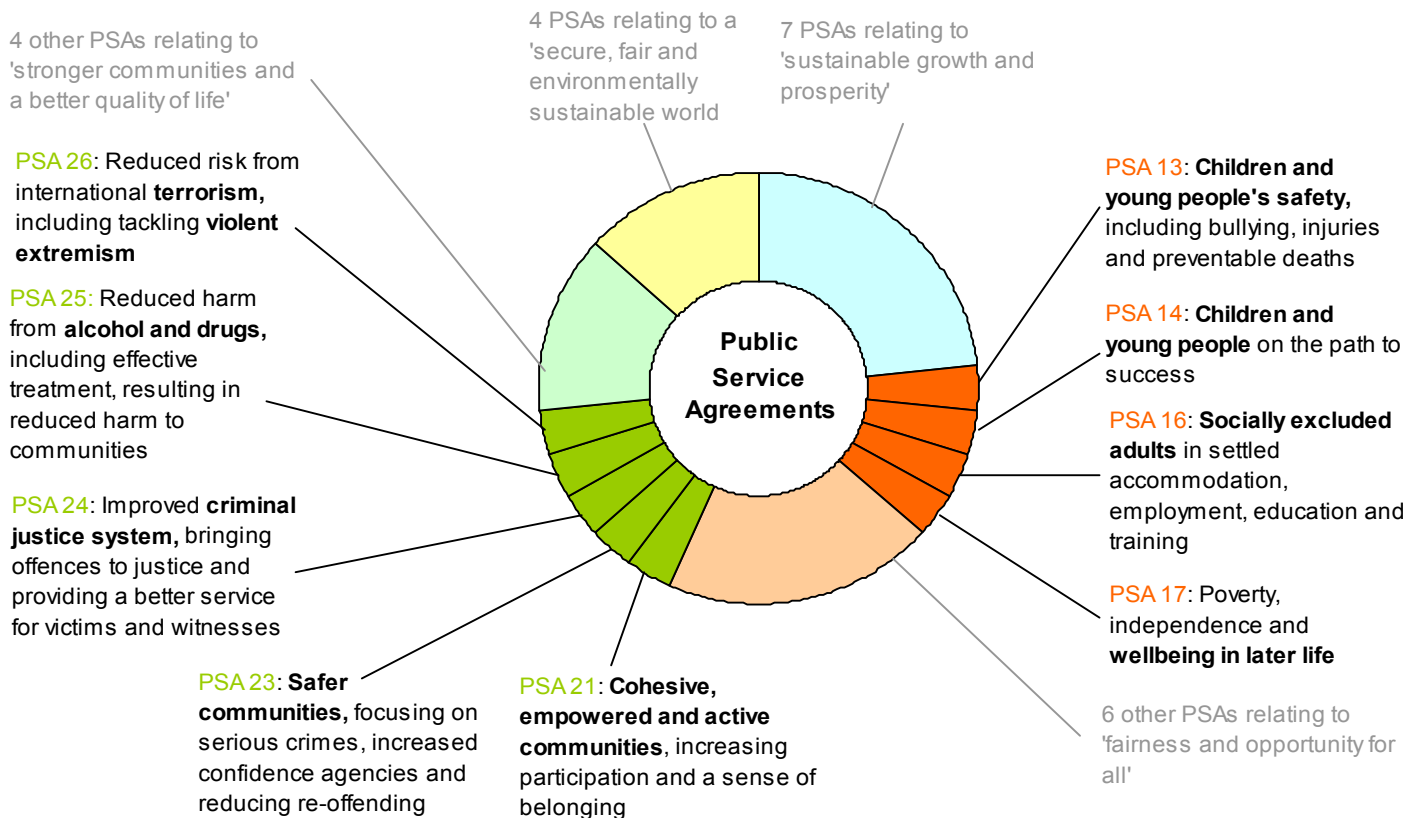

National context

Nationally, the government acknowledges that since 1998 partnership working on crime and disorder has substantially contributed to a sustained fall in crime and that the landscape against which local Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnerships (CDRPs) are now required to deliver has significantly changed. A formal review of the partnership provisions of the Crime and Disorder Act 1998 has been carried out and new requirements about how local CDRPs deliver their duties is set out in the Police and Justice Act 2006 and in subsequent regulations. In addition, the Home Office 'Guide to Effective Partnership Working' (2007) provides new statutory requirements and recommended best practice for CDRPs in the form of 'Hallmarks for Effective Partnership Working'. We have taken these into account in preparing this Strategy and particularly in establishing the way the CDRP works in Brighton & Hove (see next section on page 8).

Foreword

The government has also described in its national strategy, 'Cutting Crime: A New Partnership 2008–2011 (Home Office, 2007) the areas of focus that it requires and is seeking over this period. The new Public Service Agreements Priority Outcomes set out in the Government's 2007 Comprehensive Spending Review are shown below. A significant proportion of these have bearings on crime and community safety.

Priority Outcomes set out in the Government's Comprehensive Spending Review 2007, showing those which relate to crime and community safety

These government priorities are reflected in the Local Area Agreements which are negotiated between central government and each local authority area for the period 2008-11. The 35 targets in the Brighton & Hove Local Area Agreement include targets around alcohol harm, drugs misuse, perceptions of anti-social behaviour, first time entrants to the youth justice system, domestic violence and prolific offenders. However, there are a total of 198 National Indicators (NIs) on which all Local Strategic Partnership areas are required to report and on which performance will be monitored. The work in this strategy will help deliver on many of these 198 indicators. Those indicators where the CDRP has the lead role or are most relevant are listed under each priority area in the present strategy.

New developments and key characteristics of this Strategy

Our strategy has taken into account and will deliver on the government's key areas as well as those that were identified as priorities within the Brighton & Hove Strategic Assessment. They are:

- > Sustaining those targeted initiatives where there is strong evidence that they bring good results in reducing crime: those activities include the Priority and Prolific Offender Project and

Brighton & Hove Community Safety, Crime Reduction and Drugs Strategy 2008-11

Operation Reduction which tackles illicit drugs misuse through combining enforcement with access to services and treatment.

- > Focusing on the drivers of crime and disorder, intervening at the earliest stage to prevent its escalation; this is particularly important in relation to dealing with violent crime and anti-social behaviour.
- > Increasing interventions to address the causes of offending and re-offending, including addressing excessive drinking and the harm that comes from alcohol misuse.
- > Delivering parenting programmes in order to support families, particularly where children and young people are identified as likely to offend and become first time entrants into the youth justice system: the interventions will include where appropriate, putting in place parenting contracts and Orders alongside other enforcement powers delivered by the Anti-Social Behaviour Team.
- > Identify and address the risks that can result in children and young people becoming victims and, in a minority of cases, offenders. The CDRP is working in close partnership with the Children and Young People's Trust as the new Targeted Youth Support Service and Youth Crime Prevention Service and panels are established throughout the city.
- > Delivering work to tackle sexual violence and abuse in all contexts and according to national guidance; this is a new priority for the CDRP and we recognise the variety of circumstances in which it can occur and in particular its relationship with domestic and gender based violence.
- > Continuing to build on the progress made in 2007 to deal with domestic violence. National accreditation has been awarded for Brighton & Hove's services which include our specialist domestic violence courts, risk assessment and case conferencing arrangements, independent advisors and outreach services. They provide a real opportunity to be increasingly effective in dealing with this unacceptable crime which damages many lives.
- > Developing further our work to 'build resilience to violent extremism' according to national requirements. This work has a close relationship with many of our existing activities that aim to foster trust and confidence in communities, protect those who suffer prejudice because of their race or religion, and to promote understanding between communities of different faiths and ethnicities. The work also makes a significant contribution to the wider agenda of community cohesion.
- > Sustaining the effective working Environment Improvement Team and the Communities Against Drugs Team which achieve excellent results in identifying and responding to local problems in neighbourhoods. Both teams aim to put in place improvements to the physical environment and support to local communities which make a real difference to people's lives and reduce the likelihood of crime and disorder.
- > Reducing fear of crime and perceptions of levels of crime and disorder. Many people have a disproportionate fear of crime. Therefore we need to provide accurate information about the actuality of crime levels, increase awareness of the work being done to create safe environments in neighbourhoods and in the city centre and reassure people so that they feel safe.

Links with other strategies

A wide range of work carried out by other agencies and strategic partnerships contribute to delivering the crime reduction and safety priorities set out in this Strategy. Action plans and work programmes of those partner agencies which overlap most closely with those set out in this Strategy, are identified in each priority crime area section.

In the delivery of our new Community Safety, Crime Reduction and Drugs Strategy, the CDRP will pay particular attention to addressing and delivering within the context of the findings of the

Foreword

Inequality Review of Brighton & Hove. The Review identifies key issues and inequalities across the city as well as for particular neighbourhoods and communities. Findings that are particularly relevant for the CDRP to consider are broadly grouped within the following headings:

- > the changing demography of the city (a projected population increase of 300,000 by 2029)
- > a changing population profile (an estimated increase of 35% between 2001 and 2004 in the number of those within a Black and minority ethnic category)
- > a fast growing economy but the city having some of the most significantly deprived areas in England and high levels of inequality

Particular attention is also given to the way in which this crime reduction strategy supports the city's Sustainability Strategy and how our work will make a difference to addressing environmental, social and economic sustainability. The way in which this can happen is set out within each of our priority crime areas.

Taking the Strategy forward and monitoring progress

This strategy is divided into eleven crime reduction and safety priority areas. Lead officers have been assigned to each area who will co-ordinate and 'progress chase' actions within the work programmes. Those lead officers will work closely with partnership groups whose members have particular expertise. Those support groups meet regularly and help ensure progress is maintained.

Measures of success help us monitor and measure progress against targets and stated objectives for each area. Action Plans for each priority area provide details of the work planned to achieve outcomes. Full Action Plans are produced which set out outputs, targets, milestones and timescales, as well as who is responsible for individual actions and resources required.

Progress on performance related to the Strategy is reported to the Responsible Authorities Partnership/Drug and Alcohol Action Team on a quarterly basis and a summary report is available on the Partnership's website.

E nsuring an Effective Partnership

Objective: To ensure an effective Crime & Disorder Reduction Partnership which maximises capacity to deliver the crime reduction and safety priorities of those who live, work and visit Brighton & Hove, as well as meeting statutory requirements

The Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnership (CDRP) is required to ensure that it has the capacity and capability to deliver the priorities and objectives that are set out in this Strategy. While the CDRP in Brighton & Hove is regarded as a mature and effective partnership, it is imperative that we sustain our understanding of the full breadth of crime and community safety issues in the city and that we can demonstrate effective action to deal with them. We remain focused on continuing to improve our skills and processes to perform better and are, therefore, taking the opportunity afforded by the government’s introduction of ‘six hallmarks of effective partnerships’ to review and restructure the principles of the way in which we work. These hallmarks are set out below, together with some activities that we will be undertaking to achieve maximum capacity and performance in the coming three years.

Hallmark 1. Empowered and effective leadership

Brighton & Hove’s CDRP, led by the Chief Executive and Divisional Police Commander is the responsible authority group which ultimately signs off and commits to the implementation of this Strategy. The group merges the work of the Drug and Alcohol Action Team with that of dealing with crime and disorder and the focus is on the misuse of alcohol as well as drugs. The CDRP, which meets quarterly, includes senior representation from the five ‘responsible authorities’¹ as well as from other key experts and partners in the city including the elected portfolio holder for community safety and the Community and Voluntary Sector Forum. The group is focused on ensuring that strategically, all partners are working towards common goals, that performance is evaluated and problem solving is shared across the partnership. There are strong links with the Children and Young People’s Trust Board. The group is aligned with the Local Strategic Partnership, Public Service Board and their priority setting and business planning decision processes and with those of the Public Service and Local Area Agreement processes.

Empowered and effective leadership: Direct work to address current concerns while also building up sustainable solutions
Further actions to support Hallmark 1
1.1 Conduct an annual review to ensure that the partnership has the appropriate skills, knowledge and resources to meet the statutory requirements; consider the development of a work force development plan
1.2 Ensure that protocols and arrangements for information sharing, including for sharing personal information where necessary and proportionate, are in place and being utilised to full effect for all delivery partners, including for example registered social landlords and Women’s Refuge Project
1.3 Improve joint working with Sussex Criminal Justice Board

¹ The five responsible authorities are: Sussex Police Authority; East Sussex Fire and Rescue Service; Brighton & Hove Police Division; the Primary Care Trust and Sussex Partnership Trust; and the Local Authority.

Hallmark 2. Intelligence-led business processes

The CDRP is responsible for preparing an annual strategic assessment. Strategic assessments must include community intelligence, as well as recorded crime and information from a broad range of other sources (including from the police, demographic information sources, Accident and Emergency, ambulance, community surveys, public meetings, and so on). A 'stock take' on delivery of previous community safety activities is also included in strategic assessments. The findings of the 2007 strategic assessment provided the basis on which CDRP priorities were selected and fed into the Local Area Agreement process and it informed decision making about the allocation of resources.

A partnership Operational CDRP meets regularly to monitor and respond to trends and patterns of crime and disorder, consider performance and analysis reports and discharge partnership tasks to deal with hot-spots and problems identified. Day to day operational practice accords with the National Intelligence Model and arrangements are in place to deliver an intelligence-led, problem solving approach to enable accurate identification of problems and develop targeted solutions. An example includes the collation and analysis of information in relation to young people who are identified through youth disorder and anti-social behaviour operations, the purpose of which is to plan partnership operations and to identify those young people who are most in need of early interventions to support changes in behaviour as well as the small number for whom enforcement action is necessary. Dedicated analysts are in place for some areas, including for drugs and anti-social behaviour.

Intelligence-led business processes: Work is prioritised and targeted according to the findings of analysis, proven best practice and the views of local people

Further actions to support Hallmark 2

2.1 Further increase sources of community intelligence. Develop and embed arrangements for analysing and utilising this and other local data in the identification of problems and targeted solutions

2.2 Consult, listen and respond to the views of local communities and communities of interest Those communities who are usually under-represented in consultation to be targeted where possible.

2.3 Ensure the CDRP has flexibility to be able to respond to new analysis and findings
--

2.4 Support and encourage information/intelligence sharing between members of partnership, ensuring compliance with legal requirements. Ensure that, as required by new regulations, data disclosure and analysis of depersonalised datasets are incorporated into the Operational CDRP arrangements on a quarterly basis

2.5 Distribute information on crime and disorder hotspots and victim profiles between all partners who can contribute to developing solutions through the Operational CDRP and other multi-agency groups and information sharing procedures

2.6 Learn about best practice through published material and adopt successful methods where they might translate to local circumstances

2.7 Monitor performance against targets and actions in the CDRP's strategy and keep track of other performance indicators. The Operational CDRP to receive regular progress updates

2.8 Plan for and carry out an annual strategic assessments to check priorities against new information, emerging trends and the views of communities and manage risk. Integrate more closely the production of the strategic assessment with the police National Intelligence Model annual assessment

2.9 Evaluate and explore lessons learned from previous projects and interventions, including those that have been successful, and use this information to inform the future direction of work

2.10 Monitor the performance of other comparable partnerships and learn from best performers

Brighton & Hove Community Safety, Crime Reduction and Drugs Strategy 2008-11

2.11 Contribute partnership data to www.BHLIS.org (the website of the Local Strategic Partnership/2020 Community Partnership), enabling public access to neighbourhood level information

Hallmark 3. Effective and responsive delivery structures

The Community Safety, Crime Reduction and Drugs Strategy 2008–2011 sets out the priorities that are to be the focus of the CDRP's resources, identifies indicators against which performance will be measured, the overall outcomes sought and headline actions that will be undertaken to achieve targets and outcomes. More detailed action plans sit behind each of the priority areas of the Strategy and a performance management framework is in place which enables the CDRP to review and monitor progress against targets and indicators. The Strategy is published through website access and a summary is to be available to communities.

Delivery of the priority areas of the Strategy and 'fast time' responses to new crime and disorder problems is managed through a structure of working or action groups which are mobilised around a particular issue, or through Joint Action Groups in the East, West and Central areas of the city and a network of Local Action Teams and community of interest groups. Information which feeds into regular meetings of an Operational CDRP (a 'tasking and co-ordinating group') is considered within a culture of performance management.

The CDRP is aware of the added value of drawing on all available resources to successfully manage delivery. Consolidating neighbourhood policing arrangements with those of targeted partnership work in localities together with multi-disciplinary services of the Partnership Community Safety Team have already significantly increased effectiveness, achieving outcomes that would otherwise have not been possible. The close working with Local Action Teams, community champions and private and voluntary sector organisations is achieving the same excellent results.

Effective and responsive delivery structures: A robust performance management framework and maximisation of resources

Further actions to support Hallmark 3

3.1 Revise the community safety, crime reduction and drugs strategy annually

3.2 Seek to integrate community safety concerns into service priorities, planning and work programmes of all agencies. In particular, develop our mainstreaming and Section 17 duties of the Crime and Disorder Act ensuring that all responsible authorities are doing all that they reasonably can to prevent crime and disorder, anti-social behaviour, drug/alcohol misuse, and behaviour adverse to the environment

3.3 Develop further the opportunities for problem solving, joint approaches and sustainable solutions which come from neighbourhood policing and partnership work with local communities and communities of interest

3.4 Develop further, including through the Local Area Agreement process, opportunities for pooled budgets, particularly to achieve delivery of activities that achieve shared priorities across services

3.5 Continue to access external sources of funding for specific projects wherever possible

3.6 Develop further monitoring of the cost benefit and cost effectiveness of our work and the extent to which specific projects and areas of activity are economic, efficient and effective (value for money)

3.7 Increase transparency by developing a financial information section of the Strategy which states how resources are being applied to deliver the Strategy and how the CDRP ensures that resources are being applied to good effect

3.8 Plan a strategy to increase the visibility of the CDRP in order that communities and partners further understand the role and added value that the Partnership brings

Hallmark 4. Community engagement

There are new statutory requirements to 'consult and involve' communities, not only about what priorities the partnership should tackle and how delivery affects them, but also to consider the way in which communities can help support the delivery of the priorities in the partnership Strategy. Brighton & Hove's CDRP considers that the level of joint working that is embedded within its practices provides a constant dialogue with many of its communities of interest and with those in neighbourhoods. The Neighbourhood Action Plans prepared during 2007/08, the local audits carried out by the Community Against Drugs and Environment Improvement Teams, the network of meetings with the Black and minority ethnic and faith based communities and those with the LGBT community all go a considerable way to achieving and sustaining high levels of community engagement.

The 48 Local Action Teams in the city are also an excellent way of directly engaging with local people about their day to day experiences which, together with the neighbourhood policing arrangements described above, provide a framework for dialogue and consultation at the sharp end. However, the CDRP will also take forward city wide consultation as necessary throughout the life of this Strategy.

Community engagement: Further development of communities' involvement in the work of the partnership and ensuring provision is accessible and suitable for all groups of citizens

Further actions to support Hallmark 4

4.1 Encourage and support participation by local people and businesses in community safety and crime prevention work

4.2 Increase our engagement with and support to Local Action Teams, providing a consistent framework through which local people and the partnership can jointly identify problems and deliver solutions. Provide practical support to those who are prepared to 'take a stand' and to those who give their time and expertise to assist the CDRP with enforcement to make support communities safer

4.3 Take into account the detailed findings of the Inequality Review ensuring that the delivery of this Strategy is targeted towards those groups and communities who are identified as most vulnerable, at risk and excluded

4.4 Incorporate within the work programme for 'building resilience to extremism', positive initiatives and events which build community engagement and cohesion, taking the learning from that work into the mainstream of community safety work

4.5 Target measures to increase reporting at those least likely to report

4.6 Target work to reduce fear of crime at those most concerned

Hallmark 5. Visible and constructive accountability

The CDRP is aware that an effective partnership is one that is visible and accountable to its community for the decisions and actions it takes on their behalf. Arrangements are already in place for people in neighbourhoods and communities of interest to meet with key decision makers from the partnerships. The quarterly public meetings of the Community Safety Forum which also provide the opportunity for dialogue with elected members, the 'Face the People' meetings and the multi-agency Forums which enable open information sharing and joint decision making are well established in day to day community safety practice. In many contexts, that openness and accountability has developed to community-led and partnership multi-agency working across the city (as with the Racial Harassment Forum) and targeted in neighbourhoods (as with the Local Action Teams). In that way, and through direct feedback to individuals and groups within communities from front line staff and caseworkers, we are letting people know about problems solved and actions taken.

Visible and constructive accountability: Effective communication of the work and outcomes of the partnership
Further actions to support Hallmark 5
5.1 Increase and improve outward and visible performance management of the priorities and targets that are being delivered by the CDRP in order to further increase feelings of public confidence and reassurance amongst communities
5.2 Produce an accessible summary of the work in this strategy that encourages understanding within communities and supports improved visibility and accountability
5.3 Embed the new Community Safety Overview and Scrutiny arrangements within the local authority's processes and ensure its accountability
5.4 Further embed the use of the partnership 'Safe In the City' brand which identifies and raises awareness of work carried out by the Partnership, including that which is visible to communities as well as throughout the city
5.5 Use a variety of ways to publicise the work of the partnership, including the media and local neighbourhood networks; Utilise partnership meetings at district and local neighbourhood level and other opportunities to share information and develop solutions that support the objectives of the CDRP
5.6 Relaunch and maintain the CDRP website (www.safeinthecity.info) and encourage its use

Hallmark 6. Appropriate skills and knowledge

The CDRP is required to ensure that it has the necessary skills and knowledge to support effective partnership management, analysis, problem solving and the delivery of the Community Safety, Crime Reduction and Drugs Strategy 2008–2011.

Appropriate skills and knowledge
Further actions to support Hallmark 6
6.1 Reference the National Occupational Standards identifying any gaps in the skills and experiences of CDRP members and arranging for individual and partnership learning programmes.
6.2 Ensure elected members are kept abreast of key information to assist in decision making

Performance Indicators

A II Crime and Disorder in the City

Objective: To maintain an overview of crime and disorder in the city and keep up to date with local problems and concerns

All crime and disorder – whether serious crimes or low level incidents – directly or indirectly impacts upon individuals and communities and damages quality of life.

In 2007/08 there were about 27,500 police recorded crimes in Brighton & Hove. About 30% of the total related to theft (not including motor vehicles), a quarter were violence against the person offences and 18% were criminal damage. Over the period of the last three year strategy total crime levels remained fairly constant over the first two years, but dropped notably in the third year by about 15%.

For the three year period beginning in April 2008 there is no longer a national requirement for CDRPs to work to a target which measures overall crime. Instead, the emphasis is on focussing on local priorities through the Local Area Agreement. However, we are continuing to monitor total police recorded crime as a performance indicator locally so we can keep a check on any displacement of criminal activity from those areas being prioritised by the partnership.

There is a requirement to monitor – and Brighton & Hove is prioritising within the LAA – measures of public perceptions of anti-social behaviour. Anti-social behaviour is a priority area in this strategy and further information is found on page 19.

Below are a list of performance indicators which will reflect our success at dealing with crime and disorder overall in the city.

Performance Indicators

- LI: Total police recorded crime
- LI: % of people who think that the level of crime has got better, worse or stayed the same over the last three years

Physical Environment, Infrastructure and Quality of Life

Objective: To build up and maintain a crime-resistant city and neighbourhood infrastructure, reduce criminal damage and improve feelings of safety

Why is this a priority?

The quality of our physical environment affects how safe we feel. Signals of neglect are an invitation to vandalism and anti-social behaviour. If deterioration is not addressed, affected areas can become places that people avoid, particularly at night, and fear of crime can curtail active use and enjoyment of neighbourhoods and the city centre.

The long term solution involves investing in careful design and planning of the city's physical infrastructure and this is important in ensuring sustainable solutions to crime and disorder reduction. However, it's not just about the physical infrastructure – it's also about building up the 'people infrastructure' in local neighbourhoods and improving communication with service providers.

Environmental quality issues are regularly highlighted as matters of concern by local residents. Central government has also emphasised the underlying importance of this area of work by headlining 'Stronger Communities and a Better Quality of Life' as one of the four themes to be addressed through Public Service Agreements in the Comprehensive Spending Review 2007.

The local picture

Police recorded criminal damage rose over the first two years of the previous three year strategy, but it declined during 2007/08. However, because it makes up nearly a fifth of total recorded crime, and considering the issue of underreporting, it remains a significant issue. In 2007 nearly 20% of Citizens' Panel respondents felt that criminal damage was a fairly or a very big problem in their neighbourhood. Nearly half of recorded criminal damage is against vehicles. The percentage of streets judged unsatisfactory for graffiti, fly-posting and overall has substantially improved over the last three years, although this still remains above the targeted level.

In 2006 85% of residents reported feeling safe in the city as a whole during the day and 45% after dark and this is also a clear improvement on the position three years before. However, we know that some groups and communities, for example, older people or those with limiting long term illness, feel less safe than others. Women tend to feel less safe at night than men, although this effect is not evident during the day. A survey in 2007 confirmed that on average people tend to feel at their most unsafe in the city centre at night.

When asked in the 2007 Citizens' Panel survey about the crime types people were most worried about, burglary and theft from motor vehicles were of most concern, followed vandalism, theft of motor vehicles and cycle theft. Although there were relatively low levels of worry in the general population of attack on grounds of apparent ethnicity or sexuality, these results are likely to be somewhat different among minority groups. Respondents were more worried about being physically attacked by a stranger than about being attacked by someone they know.

Current status of work

Over the last three years there has been significant development around targeted work in city neighbourhoods to address particular issues of local concern. Work in neighbourhoods has been particularly assisted by a gradual increase in the number of Local Action Teams (LATs). LATs are made up of local community champions who consider crime, disorder and anti-social behaviour problems in their neighbourhood and help work towards local solutions. LATs are linked directly into the CDRP's multi-agency working structure which provides two-way communication enabling community intelligence and concerns at one end of the chain to be linked with strategic approaches and decision-making at the other. The police have allocated named officers to cover every area of the city and these are easily identified on the Sussex Police website.

There have been advances around improving and maintaining the quality of the physical environment. The Environment Improvement Team have implemented local design improvements through closely working with residents in a number of prioritised neighbourhoods and these have resulted in people feeling safer, and input to the city's planning processes. In addition to city-wide street appearance work by CityClean, there have also been a number of 'community action days' carried out in the city during 2007/08. These have involved agencies and residents working together on tasks to tidy, clean and improve the local neighbourhood, reducing the opportunity for criminal damage, and encouraging local ownership and a sense of community. Integrated multi-agency environmental and vehicle enforcement work has also been carried out, focusing on particular areas in the city on a rotating basis to effect a real and noticeable change for residents.

There has also been a programme of work to specifically tackle criminal damage. This has included work to improve containerisation of waste, to keep a number of high profile areas of the city clear of graffiti and focused work with young people to tackle arson.

Where next?

The Action Plan below is seeking to achieve the following:

- > Greater influence in the planning process to build up a sustainable and crime-resistant city infrastructure and a review of compliance with the extended scope of Section 17 of the Crime and Disorder Act.
- > An efficient structure which extends the co-ordination and targeting of community safety resources further into neighbourhoods and across the city. This will involve improving the partnership's resource to analyse information at a neighbourhood level.
- > Situational problem-solving through partnership working and community engagement
- > A well-maintained physical environment and further reductions in criminal damage. The Criminal Damage Working Group will produce a separate action plan and continue to meet to progress work in this area.
- > Effective communication of the work of the CDRP to the people of Brighton & Hove. A significant step forward will be the relaunch of the partnership's website (www.safeinthecity.info), but this needs to be supported by work to attract the attention of local people as well as partners. Further progress around 'branding' the work of the partnership will also be very helpful.

Links to other priority areas

Work in this area integrates with and supports work to tackle anti-social behaviour and promote community cohesion. It also helps people to feel safer resulting in them using open spaces more freely which, in turn, provides a natural guardianship of the area, deterring other types of crimes (for example, vehicle theft or violence).

Physical Environment, Infrastructure and Quality of Life Action Plan

Outcome Sought 1

Community safety and crime reduction implications are fully considered at the planning stage of all infrastructure developments and redevelopments

Areas of action

1.1 Continue to integrate community safety and crime reduction objectives within the work of the council's planning department. Investigate options, such as a requirement for all planning applications to have Design and Access Statements which include crime prevention measures, and seek changes that will routinely ensure these objectives are achieved citywide.

1.2 Seek to introduce a requirement for Safer Places Statements (developed by the Environment Improvement Team and Sussex Police) to be submitted in relation to developments in the London Road Central SPD/Master Plan.

1.3 Deliver training to officers and elected members involved in making planning decisions

Physical Environment, Infrastructure and Quality of Life

1.3 Determine whether training of officers and elected members involved in making planning decisions would be useful
1.4 The CDRP to proactively seek the prioritisation of an Supplementary Planning Document on community safety
1.5 The CDRP to input to the council's long term planning strategy (Core Strategy)
1.6 Monitor crime and disorder levels before and after planning developments to learn any lessons
Outcome Sought 2
There is an efficient structure, co-ordination and targeting of community safety resources in neighbourhoods and across the city
Areas of action
2.1 Maintain and develop the Local Action Team and Joint Action Group structure across the city
2.2 Provision of a mainstreamed resource for the analysis of crime and disorder and the presentation of information in a user-friendly, accessible manner
Outcome Sought 3
Information sharing and situational problem-solving are achieved through partnership working and community engagement
Areas of action
3.1 The Environment Improvement Team to continue to work in neighbourhoods, engaging with residents and undertaking small scale, local street appearance and design projects to reduce the likelihood of criminal damage (and other crime and anti-social behaviour) and to reduce fear of crime
3.2 Make information on local crime patterns available at a neighbourhood level
3.3 Continue to share information around community safety issues on public transport, taking forward projects to deal with new issues as they arise

Outcome Sought 4
There is less criminal damage and arson and a well maintained physical environment
Areas of action
4.1 Develop work with children and young people to deter them from committing criminal damage
4.2 Take forward opportunities afforded by community engagement
4.3 Undertake analysis of criminal damage against vehicles and respond to the findings through partnership work with different parties with relevant roles and interests
4.4 Continue partnership work to tackle graffiti through removal physical barriers to access, prosecution, etc.
4.5 CityClean to continue work around containerisation, flyposting, flytipping, etc.
4.6 Continue enforcement work around abandoned vehicles and multi-agency environmental action days
4.7 Support further educational work through the LIFE scheme

Brighton & Hove Community Safety, Crime Reduction and Drugs Strategy 2008-11

Outcome Sought 5
The widened scope of Section 17 of the Crime and Disorder Act is promoted and compliance reviewed
Areas of action
5.1 Hold a seminar for key players to determine where further developments are necessary.
Outcome Sought 6
There is effective communication of the work of the CDRP to the people of Brighton & Hove
Areas of action
6.1 Launch and maintain the CDRP website
6.2 Encourage use of the website by residents and partners working in local neighbourhoods, noting that information about community safety work is much more meaningful to residents if it relates to their local neighbourhood
6.3 Ensure CDRP news is communicated through press releases and new items on CDRP website. (Endeavour to ensure that messages reach out to populations in the city who are most fearful of crime or who are most vulnerable to crime.)
6.4 Maintain flow of information to Local Action Teams, residents groups, etc. through forwarding community safety and crime reduction content for use in local newsletters and websites
6.5 Further promote city-wide 'branding' of enforcement agencies, technology, interventions, initiatives, etc. to enhance visibility and public reassurance

A nti-Social Behaviour

Objectives: To deliver a balanced programme of interventions to deal with anti-social behaviour in the city and to address the concerns of communities.

To work in partnership to assist in the prevention of first time entrants into the youth justice system.

Why is this a priority?

Anti-social behaviour has a negative impact on communities, undermines community cohesion and influences the extent to which residents are satisfied that crime and disorder is being satisfactorily dealt with. Where people feel confident, safe and supported, they are more likely to come together with others in their community to build trust, shared values and agree what is and is not, acceptable behaviour within their neighbourhoods.

The extent to which communities perceive anti-social behaviour as a problem is reducing. This is the outcome of successful partnership working between the statutory, community and voluntary sector who contribute to local problem solving and sustainable solutions.

The Crime & Disorder Act 1998 and subsequent guidance, has required local Crime & Disorder Reduction Partnerships to prioritise the development of responses to tackle anti-social behaviour and ensure safer and stronger communities. The Together Action Plan in 2003 set the initial direction and this was followed in 2005 by the Respect Action Plan which confirmed the requirement that the approach of providing support and preventative interventions alongside enforcement was the most effective way of tackling problems. The recent launch of the Youth Taskforce Action Plan in 2008 now sets out a clear vision of integrated services delivering 'triple track' interventions of tough enforcement, non-negotiable support and better prevention targeted at children and young people at risk of, or involved in anti-social behaviour.

The local picture

The city's approach to tackling anti-social behaviour and the Anti-Social Behaviour Team were established in 2003 based on learning and experiences of the multi-disciplinary team that was piloted in eb4u (New Deal for Communities funding programme).

Brighton & Hove Community Safety, Crime Reduction and Drugs Strategy 2008-11

The partnership approach is one that seeks to strike a balance in tackling anti-social behaviour through appropriate support, diversion, intervention and enforcement. There is clear evidence of the success of this approach that is now firmly embedded in day to day practice and the basis of further service developments.

Overall analysis highlights that extremely positive progress is being achieved across the city. In 2003/04 the city perception rate was at 46%; in that same year there were 462 actions taken by a range of partner agencies to tackle anti-social behaviour. In 2006/07 the perception rate was at 36% with over 1,500 different actions recorded.

The key partners, who together were directly responsible for delivering 1,500 interventions in 2006/07, were the Anti-Social Behaviour Team, Sussex Police, Council Housing Management Services, eb4U Community Safety Team, the members of the Brighton & Hove Registered Social Landlord Forum, the Business Crime Reduction Partnership and the Hollingdean Programme.

Current status of work

Overall, there are approximately 20,000 calls generated by members of the public to Sussex Police about anti-social behaviour in Brighton & Hove each year. In 2006/07 the overall figure had reduced by 3.8% as compared to 2005/06. Community perceptions of anti-social behaviour problems being a problem in the city saw a reduction in 7 out of 8 categories.

The current work programme and planned priorities in service provision are:

- > Tackling begging & street drinking.
- > Anti-social behaviour casework services.
- > Anti-social behaviour legal, analysis and police support.
- > Youth Crime Prevention and 'Challenge and Support' Programmes for those most at risk
- > Parent support interventions, targeted to those most at risk
- > Targeted work with the most challenging families.

The anti-social behaviour approach in the city relies on integrated day-to-day partnership work by key agencies working together and alongside communities in generating sustainable solutions to local issues. It is therefore important that partnerships remain flexible, responsive and able to meet the changing needs of communities and to explain and give feedback about outcomes and performance.

Where next?

The Strategic Assessment of Crime & Disorder in Brighton & Hove (November, 2007) identified the contribution that the anti-social behaviour approach and service contributes to the delivery of wider crime reduction and community safety objectives, confirming that sustaining the approach and anti-social behaviour team is a high priority.

There are significantly improved perceptions of a reducing level of anti-social behaviour in the city. In 2003/04 46% of those surveyed perceived anti-social behaviour to be a problem: in 2006/07, 36% of those surveyed perceived anti-social behaviour to be a problem. We aim to reduce this further to 32.5% in 2008/09 and further by 2010/11.

The Youth Taskforce Action Plan: 'Give Respect, Get Respect – Youth Matters' sets a clear direction in 'working with local partners to drive forward a better response to those young people in serious trouble'. The requirements of the Action Plan and developing work programme provides new opportunities for the Anti-Social Behaviour Team, Police and the Children & Young People's Trust to further develop integrated and targeted working to identify those young people who are most 'in trouble', address the underlying causes and through individual and family support, prevent and reduce youth crime. This initiative will be taken forward alongside the development process of the new Targeted Youth Support service (led by the Children and Young People's Trust) which, while maintaining its joint working arrangements with the Anti-Social Behaviour Team, police-led youth disorder operations and Youth Offending Team, will deliver at neighbourhood level through six 'Hubs' in the East, West and Central Districts of the city. The principles of 'challenge and support' will be maintained within this new integrated service.

Targeting those parents and families most in need of support and in some cases, most at risk of losing their homes or of enforcement action will also continue to be a high priority. The Anti-Social Behaviour Team's Senior Parenting Practitioner works closely with the anti-social behaviour caseworkers and with the Youth Offending Team, giving guidance, offering and delivering parenting programmes where appropriate. Overall this helps to prevent the need for further enforcement action and reduces the number of first time entrants to the youth justice system.

This work is also of particular value in supporting the Family Intervention Programme, a project which delivers a systemic 'whole family' approach, seeking to bring about changes in behaviours which will improve and sustain over time. This means that hitherto unmet needs are frequently assessed and identified and appropriate interventions are delivered to all family members. Measurement of levels of offending and other outcomes (such as school attendance, children less likely to be on the child protection register, and so on) which are agreed with the family in advance are monitored. So far, the project provides clear evidence of the success of this approach, with positive outcomes recorded. This work makes a real contribution to the wider Parenting Strategy which is led by the Children and Young People's Trust. Extending the Family Intervention Programme city-wide and building on the successes of individual cases to achieve systems change across all services for children and families and for Adult Social Care is a priority for the coming year. We hope that a new bidding opportunity ('Think Family': Department for Children, Schools and Families) will enable that further development.

Implications for sustainability

It is very important that the city continues to be a safe place in which to live and visit and that residents and visitors alike are able to engage and participate fully in city life and all it has to offer. Reducing anti-social behaviour work and the joint work programme of the Anti-Social Behaviour Team and its partners is integral to the city's work to deliver this outcome for all communities, including those most at risk.

Illicit Drugs Misuse

Objective: To reduce, and where possible, prevent the harm to individuals, families and communities associated with the use of illicit drugs

Why is this a priority?

Reducing and preventing drug related harms remains both a national and local priority. The use of illicit drugs has a direct impact on other priority areas in the Strategy (see below). It causes physical, psychological and social harm to the individuals concerned, as well as giving rise to significant disruption and cost to families and communities.

National policy continues to be based on efforts to reduce both the supply of, and the demand for, illicit drugs. The 2008 Drug Strategy "Drugs: Protecting Families and Communities", published in February 2008, identifies four responses to these twin challenges:

- > protecting communities through robust enforcement to tackle drug supply, drug-related crime and anti-social behaviour
- > preventing harm to children, young people and families affected by drug misuse
- > delivering new approaches to drug treatment and social re-integration
- > public information campaigns, communications and community engagement.

The local Strategic Assessment indicated that illicit drugs use among young people remains at a substantial level, with about a third of 14–15 year olds surveyed in city schools in 2007 reporting having used at some point, with an increase in the use of stimulants, including cocaine, between 2004 and 2007. Based on Home Office data, it is estimated that about 730 young people aged 10-18 inclusive in Brighton & Hove are "frequent" drug users (frequent being defined as use of any drug more than once per month in the past 12 months). Within Neighbourhood Renewal Areas, nearly one third of residents surveyed perceived there was a drug problem compared with one in ten in other neighbourhoods. The estimated number of problem drug users [who use opiates and/or crack-cocaine] in 2005–06 is 2,819, and of drug injectors, 1,553 (aged 15-64). The number of persons charged with Class A drugs supply rose eightfold between 2005 and 2007, reflecting increased investment by the police in effective enforcement measures.

Current status of work

During the last three years, work with young people has seen improvements in drug education via the Healthy Schools Scheme; in the provision of services for families where there are drug misusing parents and carers with vulnerable children; in the integration of training and services addressing both teenage pregnancy/sexual health and substance misuse; and in the number of young people entering specialist treatment. Within local communities, local action plans have been produced in each of the ten Neighbourhood Renewal Areas, resulting in environmental improvements, while city-wide initiatives include the work of the Patched Family Support Service and, in partnership with the business community, a Shoplifting Project targeting drug-related acquisitive crime. These plans have been informed by detailed local drug audits, which have been the basis of additionally commissioned services targeted within local communities. Treatment services have benefited from the acquisition of new premises opened in 2006, together with a substantial increase in treatment places, with 1,417 people entering treatment in 2006–07 compared with 987 in 2004–05. The percentage retained in treatment for twelve weeks or more rose from 55% to 74% during the same period. With regard to reducing supply, the introducing of Operation Reduction in 2005 has contributed to an increase in the number of Class A drug offenders brought to justice for supply offences and in the number of potential arrestees diverted into treatment.

Where next?

The next three years should see further inroads being made – into the challenges of the new national ten year drug strategy, taking into account a reduction in the allocation of expansion costs and an emphasis on efficiency savings and a more effective use of resources. For young people and families, there will be a continuing focus on supporting the children of drug misusing parents and carers in order to sustain family units and reduce substitute care, building on the promising outcomes of the first eighteen months of the initiative; further integration of substance misuse screening, assessment and non-specialist interventions into the Children and Young People's Trust; and restructuring of the under 19s treatment service. For communities, neighbourhood audits and interventions will continue, aimed at both assisting local populations to reduce drug related crime and at providing targeted support through, for example, family services and health training. The sustained investment in communities-based work over the last three years by the CDRP has provided a solid foundation for the partnership to use this to continue adding value to the enforcement, prevention and treatment strands of the new Drug Strategy. Treatment interventions will undergo a major review, in line with national guidance published by the National Institute of Health and Clinical Excellence, in order to deliver more effective and economical treatment. Enforcement activity, to reduce supply and to lessen the impact of drug dealing on community cohesion, will be sustained through Operation Reduction and further improvements in intelligence gathering and reporting in local communities.

Links to other priority areas

Illicit drug misuse, in the words of the Home Secretary's foreword to the new Drug Strategy "wastes lives, destroys families and damages communities. It costs taxpayers millions to deal with the health problems caused by drugs and to tackle the crimes, such as burglary, car theft, mugging and robbery which are committed by some users to fund their habit". The use of illicit drugs can be a significant factor in work with a number of other Strategy priority areas, including anti-social behaviour, acquisitive crime, public place violent crime, domestic violence, and preventive and support work with young people as well as having a negative influence on the quality of the environment.

Acquisitive Crime: Burglary, Theft and Business Crime

Objective: To reduce acquisitive crime including burglaries, thefts of and from motor vehicles, cycle theft and business crime

Why is this a priority?

Acquisitive crime, often motivated by drug abuse, is invasive. In particular, domestic burglaries have a significant impact on victims and business crime can jeopardise the prosperity of businesses in the city.

The Home Office estimates that the average financial cost (2003 prices) of each domestic burglary is £3,268, theft of a vehicle is £4,138 and theft from a vehicle is £858.

The local picture

In 2007, the Citizens' Panel Survey found that 29% of local people reported feeling fairly worried or very worried about their homes being broken into and a further 45% felt slightly worried. Roughly similar percentages of people were worried about theft of or theft from their vehicles. 12% of Citizen's Panel respondents had experienced or observed domestic burglary In the past twelve months and a similar percentage had experienced or observed attempted burglary.

Over the course of recent years levels of police recorded vehicle crime and domestic burglary have substantially fallen. While vehicle crime remains at relatively low levels, domestic burglaries are showing signs that they might be rising again, so it is important we continue with current work streams to maintain recent reductions. Cycle theft showed an upwards trend up to 2006, in line with the number of people cycling, but fell back in 2007.

Current status of work

Operation Reduction which targets drug dealers and users with a dual approach of enforcement and support has made a significant contribution locally to reducing acquisitive crime, as has work with prolific and priority offenders (described further in a separate section of this strategy).

Operation Inroad has been successful in increasing awareness of potential victims of distraction burglary. When incidents do occur, this initiative provides an enhanced response to victims and a quality focussed investigation.

The Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnership (CDRP) appointed priority crime reduction officer has coordinated and delivered a wide range of activities and initiatives around acquisitive crime drawing on national best practice. This has included a programme of providing additional security to 486 homes over the past two years. These have mainly been in the city centre where properties tend to be more vulnerable.

Operation Corbett focuses the police response to the investigation of vehicle crime and continues to contribute to vehicle crime reductions. Automatic number plate recognition cameras, better car security and targeted plans concerning prolific offenders will continue to contribute to vehicle crime reductions.

In response to the rise in cycle theft, a multi-agency group was set up to tackle the problem. Work has subsequently begun on an action plan which includes improved cycle parking facilities and work to raise awareness among cyclist about best practice around cycle security.

The Business Crime Reduction Partnership (BCRP), supported by the CDRP, continues to increase its membership and provides support to businesses in reducing crime. Areas of business supported include the retail sector and the night time economy.

CDRP activity has therefore made a significant contribution to crime reduction in this area. Underlying this is the day to day work of the police in Brighton and Hove in dealing with victims, gathering intelligence, targeting offenders, detecting offences and bringing offenders to justice.

Where next?

The CDRP priority crime reduction officer will continue to develop initiatives to maintain our reductions in these crime areas and we will continue to invest in Operation Reduction and work targeting prolific and priority offenders.

We will maintain current CDRP actions to reduce burglary paying particular attention to distraction burglaries which can have a serious impact on predominantly older victims.

Regarding vehicle crime, we will focus on developing systems which utilise automatic number plate recognition, targeting offenders and publicising good practice to vehicle owners.

A high profile cycle theft awareness campaign is planned to coincide with the summer cycling season during 2008.

The CDRP will continue to work with the BCRP developing the roles of the night time and day time coordinators to encompass wider crime reduction activity and to actively own, develop and coordinate the business crime reduction action plan.

Links to other priority areas

Work in this area is supported by work in the action plans relating to Priority and Prolific Offenders, drugs misuse, and physical environment, infrastructure and quality of life.

Sustainability issues

As shown above, many people have an underlying concern about the risk of acquisitive crimes, particularly those which are personally invasive. Also, business crimes are not victimless; small businesses particularly can be disproportionately disadvantaged by business crime and neighbourhoods where premises have closed down detract from the visual appearance of the area, can lose their attraction as places to visit and encourage criminal damage and anti-social behaviour.

National research has found their cycle has been stolen, two out of three people will cycle less frequently and one in four will stop cycling altogether. A reduction in cycle theft rates therefore supports work to build up environmental sustainability and also has positive health benefits.

Since acquisitive crime levels have been relatively low in recent times, it would be easy to divert resources into other crime and community safety issues. However, the CDRP must continue with ongoing police operations and CDRP initiatives so as to maintain these low levels of crime. These are not currently resource intensive so this is achievable. The CDRP will continue to monitor crime trends in this area and where spare analytical capacity exists successful projects and operations will be evaluated to learn from their success.

Hate Crimes and Incidents

Objective: To reduce crimes and incidents which are motivated by hatred and protect victims

Hate crime is any incident which constitutes a criminal offence, which is perceived by the victim or any other person as being motivated by prejudice or hate. It is an action that goes beyond causing offence or being hostile. It is a criminal offence committed against a person or property that is motivated by an offender's hatred of someone because of their:

- >race, colour, ethnic origin, nationality or national origins
- >religion
- >gender or gender identity
- >sexual orientation
- >disability.

Hate crime can take many forms including:

- >physical attacks, assaults, damage to property, offensive graffiti, neighbour disputes and arson
- >threat of attack including offensive letters, abusive or obscene telephone calls, groups hanging around to intimidate and unfounded, malicious complaints
- >verbal abuse or insults, offensive leaflets and posters, abusive gestures, dumping of rubbish outside homes or through letter boxes and bullying at school or in the workplace

Brighton & Hove's Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnership is committed to dealing with hate crime and to the prejudice and discrimination that fuel such hatred. In the next two sections of the Strategy, work is described which tackles hate crimes motivated by racist and religious hatred and by homophobia, transphobia and biphobia.

During 2008, the Partnership will develop its plans to deal with crimes which are motivated by hatred of someone because of their disability and will include within that definition those that have physical, sensory or learning disabilities and those who are vulnerable because of mental ill health. This work is in the context of the Disability Discrimination Acts of 1995 and 2005.

Our sections of the Strategy which set out our work programmes for tackling domestic and sexual violence recognise the relationship between these crimes and gender-based violence and the new duties that are required by the Equality Act 2006. During 2008, the Partnership will consider how it can further integrate considerations of gender within the work on other priority crime areas. These considerations will ensure that the CDRP is fully compliant with all recent equality duties.

Racially and Religiously Motivated Crimes/Incidents and Building Resilience to Extremism

Objectives: To prevent and reduce racist and religiously motivated crimes and incidents

To increase trust and confidence and to build long-term resilience to violent extremism

Definition - 'A racist or religiously motivated incident is any incident which is perceived to be racist or religiously motivated by the victim or any other person.'

Why is this a priority?

Tackling racist and religiously motivated crimes and incidents and building resilience to extremism is within the context of Brighton & Hove's changing population profile.

The 2001 Census estimated that there were just over 14,200 people from non-white ethnic groups – 5.7% of the city's population. However, BME groups were estimated to have increased in size by 35% over the period 2001 to 2004 (against a national increase of 13%). 15% of the city's residents were born outside of England (well above national levels) and 20% of all new births in 2005 were to mothers born outside the UK. The city ranks in the top 10 local authorities across England in terms of numbers of migrant workers with 5,000 registrations from overseas workers in 2005 alone (Inequality Review 2007/08, Brighton & Hove City Council). The city also hosts several thousand overseas students every year.

Assessing the extent to which this increasing population is vulnerable to racist/religiously motivated crimes and incidents is informed in part by national research which consistently shows high levels of under-reporting, specifically that police databases record fewer than a fifth of those incidents which are revealed through surveys.

The local picture

The Brighton & Hove Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnership (CDRP) has consistently prioritised work aimed at increasing reporting either to the police, the caseworkers within the Community Safety Team, housing and school staff or to one of our community or voluntary sector partners. Our Strategic Assessment (2007) revealed an ongoing rising trend in reports. During 2006–07 there were 588 recorded racially or religiously motivated crimes and incidents. The most prevalent types of incidents were verbal abuse (37%), harassment (17%), physical violence (15%) and against property (11%). A deeper analysis of our common database revealed that between September 2005 and October 2007, 71 incidents were identified as religiously motivated. Of those 54% were identified as Islamophobic and 37% were identified as anti-Semitic. Overall, 90% of perpetrators were 'White European', more likely to be male and most likely to be in their teens or twenties. Victims were most likely to be the younger population (42% directed at 11 – 30 year olds).

Hate Crimes and Incidents

The central area of the city, which is the focus for visitors and businesses, has the highest concentration and increasing number of incidents (Regency ward) with other central areas (Queen's Park and St. Peter's & North Laine) and East Brighton also showing concentrations.

Our analysis also shows that rises or peaks in reported incidents correlate with international and national events and tensions. For example, in July 2005 following the London bombing incidents, Brighton & Hove had the largest number of reported incidents that it had recorded in any single previous month. We estimate that those incidents were particularly experienced by those who were perceived to be of the Muslim faith. However, other communities are also at an increased risk of targeted crimes or incidents, including gypsies and travellers, refugees and migrant workers, overseas students, health service workers and BME businesses, particularly those which work in front line occupations such as food and retail outlets and taxi drivers.

Community engagement and trust and confidence

Our work to prevent and deal with these hate crimes has also directly contributed to building increased trust and confidence by local communities in criminal justice and statutory partner agencies. Community engagement and supporting partnership work with communities is prioritised as one of a number of ways through which we build trust and confidence. That work and the positive direct relationships that our police officers and staff within the Partnership Community Safety Team have with the Muslim Forum, the Sudanese Coptic Association, the Jewish Representative Council and other faith based groups provide the opportunity for directly addressing the concerns and daily experiences they have and of delivering solutions which further protect them.

This work has anticipated some of what is now required of local authorities and CDRPs in 'building resilience to violent extremism'. The Department of Communities and Local Government (DCLG) have provided local authorities with guidance and a framework within which to deliver the new requirements. The guidance seeks a 'step change' in activity at local level, targeting those communities who are most at risk.

Current status of work

Brighton & Hove CDRP will continue its active support of the Racial Harassment Forum, the 'multi-agency panel' which was identified as a key good practice initiative within the findings of the Stephen Lawrence Inquiry. The Forum is a partnership of community, independent sector and statutory service providers. An independent review of its governance and working practices in 2006 has ensured that the Forum is 'fit for purpose' to deliver its duties including all those which are set out in the detailed action plan of this Strategy which incorporates targeted work to build resilience to violent extremism as well as comprehensive actions to reduce racist/religiously motivated crimes and incidents.

A high priority is to sustain and further develop the provision of high quality police responses and casework services which provide the full range of criminal and civil justice remedies which resolve safety issues, protect victims and, where appropriate, bring offenders to justice. The added value that will come from closer working with Neighbourhood Policing Officers and Teams will be one of the initiatives in coming months which aim to improve responses.

Brighton & Hove Community Safety, Crime Reduction and Drugs Strategy 2008-11

We have done particularly well in taking forward projects which reduce risks for particularly vulnerable groups. A Home Office grant is awarded from the Victim Fund which has allowed an outreach worker employed by Friends, Families and Travellers to work with gypsies and travellers to increase reporting. Funding has also been secured to work with taxi drivers in the city and to increase their safety from racist abuse and attacks. The success of this initiative is a result of a strong partnership with community leaders and the members of Sudanese community in particular.

Mainstreaming good practice approaches has significantly progressed with expertise being shared from the Partnership Community Safety Team in the delivery of training programmes to many council services. The Healthy Schools Team (within the Children and Young People's Trust (CYPT)) has led cutting edge work to tackling bullying in schools. The 'Social and Emotional Aspects of Learning' initiative has been delivered to primary schools and by September 2008 will be implemented in all schools in the city. As the local education authority, the CYPT has now analysed a full year of returns from schools, which together with the findings of the 'Safe at School' survey is providing important information on which we can base educational and preventative work with children and young people.

Where next?

Sustaining our multi-agency panel, the Racial Harassment Forum continues to be a high priority. We will provide support to those representatives of the community and independent sector who give of their time and expertise in helping in the delivery of the Forum's work which includes the work programme set out within this strategy and action plan. The Annual General Meetings provide important opportunities to review progress and to celebrate shared achievements. We will continue to strengthen the link with democratic processes through the Community Safety Forum and with stronger links within neighbourhoods.

Work to further increase reporting will continue and we will sustain and extend the delivery of good practice casework to victims and witnesses, co-ordinating effective multi-agency responses and remedies.

We will continue to meet Home Office requirements to record, monitor and analyse tensions and risks and submit monthly reports. We will also continue to address the particular concerns and experiences of those who are targeted and fearful because of their faith, hold regular faith based 'community concerns' meetings and provide opportunities for dialogue including with police intelligence services and for problem solving on issues that are of shared concern.

That work will be the basis of a 'step change' programme through which we will deliver the work to build our local communities resilience to violent extremism (as required by the DCLG). As well as further engaging and supporting those communities who are most at risk, we will progress the strands of work that seek to ensure the effective use of the education system, and where appropriate the youth service, to promote faith understanding in schools, colleges and universities. We will seek to increase the involvement of women from different faith groups in new initiatives, work with our partners to further introduce inclusive cultural initiatives, inter faith work and projects which build civic capacity. Our activities during Refugee Week in June and the 'City People's Day' in October 2008 will be two of the initiatives which will help take forward that work. At a strategic level, we will contribute to partnership work to help build community cohesion particularly where that will assist in targeted work to prevent extremism.

Links to other priority areas

Work in this action plan feeds into broader work around equalities and community cohesion. It also supports and is supported by other work in this strategy around anti-social behaviour, children and young people and public place alcohol related crime disorder.

Sustainability

Racially and religiously motivated crimes and incidents significantly adversely affect the health, well-being and quality of life of individuals and families, damage lives and communities and undermine community cohesion. The importance of addressing individual safety concerns and carrying out targeted work to protect particular faith and race based groups is also recognised in the government’s requirements that we deliver on the aim to build communities’ long term resilience to confront and reduce their vulnerability to extremism. We firmly believe that is being achieved in Brighton & Hove, that we have the full support of our local communities in doing so and that sustaining community cohesion within all communities most at risk is a shared priority.

LGBT Hate Crimes and Incidents

Objectives: To reduce homophobic, biphobic, and transphobic crimes and incidents

To improve the trust and confidence of Brighton and Hove LGBT people in Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnership agencies and their work to develop community cohesion

Why is this a priority?

Brighton & Hove has an estimated LGBT population of 35,000 people. Official figures show a relatively low level of hate crime and incidents recorded. The level of under-reporting however, has been evidenced in “The Count Me In Too” survey of 2006. This showed that 73% of the 847 people taking part, had experienced at least one crime or incident within the previous five years. Of these, only 1 in 7 had reported it. During that five year period, 763 crimes and incidents had been officially recorded. Extrapolating that figure could mean that as many as 5,341 crimes and incidents actually took place during the period, over 1,000 per year. This research also shows a disproportionate impact on vulnerable, excluded or marginalised groups. There is therefore, a real danger that tackling homophobic/trans/biphobic crimes and incidents might not be adequately prioritised if recorded crime figures are the only source of information. The evidence shows that a sustained level of hate crime and incidents are not being reported. This has a cumulative and serious impact on individuals and LGBT communities.

While the city presents culturally as being socially inclusive and tolerant of sexual diversity, it also has a vibrant night time economy, and is a popular destination for short term visitors. The central area of Brighton, including the prominent LGBT area of Kemptown, is home to a transient community (as well as established residents). This mix of people from different backgrounds and levels of understanding reveals widespread prejudice. Discrimination ranges from verbal to physical abuse, much of which is unrecorded and therefore unaddressed. LGBT residents and visitors migrate to Brighton from less progressive places believing it to be safe and tolerant and can be disillusioned to find that this is not always the case. LGBT people need to have trust and confidence in services dealing with hate crime, and under-reporting is a sign that many may not. This, along with a criminal justice attrition rate which is greater than that of other hate crimes, combines towards a lack of confidence in the reporting process, and this is self perpetuating.

Current status

2007 saw the creation of multi-agency LGBT working groups, including a Casework Panel and an LGBT Community Safety Working Group, with standing groups around topics including mental health, housing and domestic violence and abuse. These groups will be instrumental in providing improved partnership solutions in reducing hate crime and incidents.

The Count Me In Too report of 2007 provided important information and further focussed analysis of the community safety data has also been undertaken. This provides further information on the LGBT community's perceptions of hate crime and assessments of agency responses as well as useful evidence for the development of service approaches.

One example of a specific development that has been informed by Count Me In Too data, is the setting up of weekly trans drop-in sessions, facilitated by a support worker to address trans community issues.

Efforts have been made to increase reporting of incidents, with specific initiatives including, 'True Vision', 'Blow the Whistle' and 'Where Do You Fit In' campaigns. In field work, a successful multi-agency project took place in 2007 under the name of Operation Reagan which specifically focused on reducing violent crime in a hotspot areas during the summer months.

Where next?

There is insufficient information about incidents which can serve as a basis for the development and design of future services to meet the needs of victims or change the behaviour of perpetrators. The implications are that repeat incidents are likely to go unchecked and escalate while opportunities to introduce good practice measures which educate, prevent and deter perpetrators are lost. Without good information, it is difficult to set meaningful benchmarks.

We need to reduce hate crime and make Brighton & Hove a safer place for LGBT people. A priority will be to increase reporting and improve recording. We will seek to increase opportunities for third party reporting through a common framework of shared reporting systems and improve recording by developing better recording systems. This will allow us to carry out analytical work on data collected across all agencies focussing on areas such as criminal justice and offending patterns.

We will continue to develop our community engagement processes and support the level of community capacity. In this way we will build stronger relationships which will improve the trust and confidence of LGBT people and community agencies. In turn, this will help to improve co-ordination and partnership work to implement strategic recommendations.

We will continue to support victims and witnesses and respond to the safety needs of multiple marginalised people and support counselling services for survivors. This will also involve sustaining development work on domestic violence, anti bullying and sexual offences.

Implications for sustainability

It is vital for the social, economic and environmental well being and for the overall health of individuals that the local LGBT community feel safe and are able to participate fully in the life of the city. Good community cohesion is achieved where cultural diversity is encouraged, strong and positive relationships exist between people from different backgrounds and where people trust one and other and have trust in; local institutions to act fairly.

Domestic Violence

Objective: To prevent and reduce domestic violence through an effective co-ordinated community response that reduces social tolerance of domestic violence, increases the safety of survivors, reduces the harm caused and brings offenders to justice.

Definition – ‘Domestic violence is physical, sexual and psychological violence that forms a pattern of coercive, controlling behaviour and takes place between adults who are current or former partners and/or their immediate family members.’

This includes rape, threats, intimidation, financial and emotional abuse, forced marriage, female genital mutilation and so-called honour killings, as well as elder abuse when committed within the family or by an intimate partner.

Whatever form it takes, domestic violence is rarely a one-off incident. More usually it's a pattern of abusive and controlling behaviour through which the abuser seeks power over their victim.

Why is this priority?

“Too often the crime of domestic violence is hidden away, but we are determined to bring it out into the open and address its root causes. (Home Office, 2008)”

Domestic violence occurs across society, regardless of age, gender, race, sexuality, wealth and geography. It consists mainly of violence by men against women. Victims of domestic violence suffer on many levels - health, housing, education - and lose the freedom to live their lives how they want, and without fear.

There is a strong correlation between domestic violence, mental ill health, substance misuse, repeat attendance at A & E, the case histories of offenders, those families needing intensive parenting support and child protection issues. Children and young people face increased risk of abuse, injury or death if they are exposed to domestic violence and it severely affects their health and well being, achievement and development.

The total cost to society is an estimated £23 billion a year in England and Wales. The estimated costs of services and lost economic output in Brighton and Hove (based on the national estimates) could be as high as £30 million per annum. The estimated cost of individual pain and suffering caused by domestic violence in the city is £88 million per annum.

National direction

The key objective of the 2007/08 National Delivery Plan for Domestic Violence is to ensure a coordinated community response in order to:

- > Increase early identification of – and intervention with – victims of domestic violence
- > Build capacity to provide effective advice and support to victims
- > Improve the criminal justice response to domestic violence by increased reporting, arrests and offences brought to justice
- > Support victims through the Criminal Justice System and manage perpetrators to reduce risk, harm and incidence

The Home Office Violent Crime Action Plan 2008 seeks to:

- > Double the number of Specialist Domestic Violence Courts by 2011
- > Roll out Multi Agency Risk Assessment Conferences ensuring sustainable support is available for all DV victims by 2011
- > Develop a national action plan to so-called honour-based violence' by the end of 2008
- > Establish a national working group to identify and develop actions to assist victims from Black and Minority Ethnic groups

The local picture

Brighton & Hove police recorded 3,392 crimes and incidents of domestic violence in 2006/07, of which 1,373 were crimes. This is 18% of total violent crime locally. Of those 1,373 crimes, there were 915 detections which resulted in 292 finalised court cases and 170 convictions.

There were 289 presentations to the Housing Service related to domestic violence of which 62 became homeless applications and the Women's Refuge Project supported 181 children and young people in 06/07 and in total they received 2,244 referrals last year.

Domestic Violence was identified as a primary 'underlying cause' in 24% of registrations on the Child Protection Register.

Based on national estimates that only 23% of domestic violence is reported to the police, we could expect that over 27,000 women locally could be experiencing domestic violence as could one in four LGBT residents - a further 8,000 people.

Current status of work

Significant areas of development in the past year have been initiated following the completion of a 'Gaps Analysis'. They are:

- > Establishing the Specialist Domestic Violence Court programme in Brighton and Hove which has achieved national accreditation. This means that the city is on track to fulfil the eleven requirements of a coordinated community response some of which (below) have also been achieved this year
- > The Specialist Domestic Violence Court which has been running since August 2007, provides the opportunity for weekly 'clustering' of cases and improved case management and support for victims, witnesses and court and criminal justice processes.
- > Multi-Agency Risk Assessment Conferencing Panels are in place, chaired by a senior police officer which enables case planning within the context of assessed levels of risk and support needs

Domestic Violence

- > Increased capacity within the Anti-Victimisation Investigative Unit from an additional caseworker post
- > Independent Domestic Violence Advocates (IDVA) who support victims through the criminal justice system. We are close to achieving the numbers of IDVAs required from accreditation with one post focusing on the needs of Gay, Bisexual and Transgender victims
- > Brighton and Hove's perpetrator programme, 'Living Without Violence,' (piloted in East Brighton but now delivering city-wide) is formally evaluated and successes and areas for development identified
- > Increased funding from the City Council has enabled the Women's Refuge Project to extend its work to schools and youth centres and to roll out the Safe As Houses service model across the city and in neighbourhoods
- > 'Count Me in Too', a report on the findings from LGBT lives in the city, has been launched and given direction to the new Domestic Violence Strategy (2008-2011)
- > Housing Services are running a 'Sanctuary Project' which seeks to protect women and children from perpetrators while enabling them to remain within their existing homes

Where next?

Led by the Senior Officer Strategy Group for Domestic Violence, the new strategy (2008-11) aims to sustain and further extend the capacity of existing initiatives and partnership work, including the good practice initiatives which were established during 2007 and which increase protection for survivors and the potential for increased rates of prosecution and conviction.

In addition there will be an increased focus on publicising the unacceptability of domestic violence in order to encourage women and men to report and seek assistance and redress at an earlier stage. We will also seek to take further our existing partnership work with the Children and Young People's Trust and with health providers and are looking forward to the possibility of locating domestic violence specialists within health care and clinical settings, including within Accident and Emergency.

Links to other priority areas

There is a strong relationship between domestic violence and sexual violence in some contexts. The Senior Officer Strategy Group for Domestic Violence is to consider developing and leading actions to deal with sexual violence and abuse that occurs within domestic settings.

In dealing with domestic violence, there are also connected concerns and services with those for children and young people, young offenders, prevention of homelessness, health care and maternity services, substance abuse programmes and mental health services.

Implications for sustainability

Preventing domestic violence is central to successfully meeting targets in relation to public and primary health, reducing crime and the fear of crime, reducing the harm caused by serious violent crime, bringing offenders to justice, safeguarding children and vulnerable adults, education and violence prevention, and promoting equality within diverse communities.

Sexual Violence and Abuse

Objective: To prevent sexual violence and abuse, improve acute and ongoing victim care and criminal justice responses

Definition - Central Government confirms the definition as:

- Sexual violence and abuse which occurs in a domestic setting (includes forced marriage and honour killings).
- Rape and sexual assault which occurs in a public place or non-domestic setting
- Sexual exploitation
- Prostitution and trafficking
- Childhood sexual abuse

The definition includes all of those affected by these crimes including women, men and children but also recognises the strong associations between sexual violence and gender-based violence which represent a significant cause and consequence of inequality for women. The relationship with domestic violence is clear. In 2004, the government's definition of domestic violence was extended to include acts perpetrated by extended family members which now includes honour crimes and forced marriage.

Why is this priority?

Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnerships have been advised that tackling sexual violence is a government priority as set out within the following:

- > Cutting Crime: A New Partnership 2008-11
- > Tackling Sexual Violence: Guidance for Local Partnerships, June 2006
- > Cross Government Action Plan on Sexual Violence and Abuse, April 2007
- > Saving Lives. Reducing Harm. Protecting the Public. Action Plan for Tackling Violence, 2008-11
- > Developing Domestic Violence Strategies: A Guide for Partnerships, 2004
- > Local Area and Public Service Agreements, including Reward Element Guidance
- > Gender Equality Duty, 2007

In summary, government is seeking to prioritise those crimes which cause the most harm to individuals in society. In relation to sexual violence we are advised that CDRPs have a crucial role to play in the prevention of these serious crimes in providing services to victims and in bringing perpetrators to justice.

Findings from the strategic assessment

Sexual violence and abuse have a devastating impact on victims, their families and friends and wider society. Its impact is likely to affect mental, physical and sexual health. The severity of the impact is reflected in the high cost to the victims and to society. Home Office research published in 2005 estimated that the total cost of sexual offences committed in England & Wales in 2003-04 was nearly £8.5 billion.

Brighton & Hove Community Safety, Crime Reduction and Drugs Strategy 2008-11

The government's guidance confirms that sexual violence and abuse in adulthood are massively under-reported by both male and female victims. The 2001 British Crime Survey Inter-Personal Violence Model found that only 15% of rapes came to the attention of the police and that 40% of those who had suffered had told no-one about it. Over half had suffered sexual violence perpetrated by a current or former partner. 98% of offenders are male and 82% of victims are female. Women have a greater fear of rape than any other crime.

The attrition rate is high. For example, of those rapes which are reported to the police, under 6% result in a conviction.

There is a strong correlation between alcohol and sexual violence. Research indicates that in a significant proportion of rape and sexual assault cases, the victim consumed alcohol prior to the assault. There may be a number of reasons for this association, one of those being that women may be specifically targeted by perpetrators because they are drunk, more vulnerable as a result and less likely to remember details of the attack. Research also indicates that many perpetrators have drunk alcohol immediately prior to the incident or have ongoing alcohol misuse problems.

In Brighton & Hove, the local Strategic Assessment confirmed that 327 sexual offences were recorded by the police in the year 2006/07 and 164 crimes recorded between April and September 2007. These figures compare with 399 in 2005/06 and with 416 in 2004/05.

Sex workers are amongst those groups who are a higher risk of being a victim of sexual violence and of being less likely to report incidents. Brighton & Hove does not have 'on street' prostitution activity. However, there are a significant number of prostitutes working from sex parlours and within an 'indoor' sex market. A local survey revealed that of those surveyed in the city, 57.5% of sex workers reported that they had experienced violence or abuse and, of those, only 12.5% had reported those incidents to the police.

Childhood sexual abuse and that experienced by young people is also included within the definition. The Local Safeguarding Children Board commissioned and received a report (2007) on the findings of a 'Joint agency audit into the incidence, recording and outcomes of child sexual abuse investigations in Brighton & Hove'. Its purpose was to ensure that sufficient safeguards are in place to protect children and to ensure that joint working mandated by the Board is effective and efficient. The review looked at ways that child sexual abuse is reported and recorded, the care pathways that are followed and processes of investigation, case management and support. The recommendations which come from the review of 38 cases are helping to inform good practice changes within the health, social care and police sectors.

Research and a report undertaken by Barnardo's (September 2007) and supported by the Children and Young People's Trust has also assisted in providing important information. The 'Pan Sussex study of Young People at Risk of Sexual Exploitation and Trafficking' audited 33 case studies from Brighton & Hove (as well as 10 from East and West Sussex). The findings identify reasons and evidence of the underlying causes as to why and how young people are drawn into sexual activity, including the exchange of sexual acts for money, drugs, a bed for the night/accommodation and so on. There is a strong correlation with their living circumstances and their vulnerability to sexual exploitation and with alcohol and drug abuse. The recommendations for action include those to identify and reduce risks as well as interventions to protect young people. In addition the aim is to address the invisibility for sexual exploitation of young people.

Current status of work

Brighton & Hove's CDRP has recognised the high priority that is being given to this work by government and that there are gender equality duties that are also required. The CDRP also recognises the cross-cutting nature of the work and that sexual violence can occur in a range of different contexts and circumstances. We plan therefore that actions to combat sexual violence are integrated within action plans and work programmes which are dealing with:

- > Domestic violence
- > Alcohol related violence
- > Violent crime
- > Prostitution & trafficking
- > Safeguarding children
- > Adult protection
- > Fear of crime
- > Gender equality duty
- > Public protection and the management of offenders

Where next?

While we co-ordinate the actions from the work programmes of those strategies identified above and work towards the development of a holistic CDRP Strategy to tackle sexual violence by January 2009, we will also take forward individual best practice initiatives such as the Sexual Assault Referral Centre. We recognise that sexual violence is best tackled through a multi-agency approach therefore we will seek to establish a Forum which will draw upon the expertise of both independent and statutory sector agencies as well as supporting the role of specialist voluntary sector services.

Implications for sustainability

Preventing sexual violence is central to meeting targets in relation to public health in communities, the health and wellbeing of individuals and their families and safeguarding children and young people. Women are most likely to be victims of sexual violence and those who are most excluded are more likely to be at risk, therefore preventing and reducing its incidence, is central to the delivery of the Inclusive Council Policy and of the Gender Equality duties.

8.1 Consider establishing a multi-agency Sexual Violence and Abuse Forum which receives reports from and co-ordinates actions being taken forward by the individual working groups that are identified within this Strategy

Prolific and Priority Offenders

Objective: To reduce the nature and volume of crimes committed by prolific and other priority offenders and to prevent those most at risk of becoming the prolific offenders of the future from doing so

Why is this a priority?

Nationally, it is estimated that 50% of crime is committed by 10% of offenders; the most prolific 0.5% commit 10% of crimes. Reducing the numbers of juvenile and adult prolific offenders and their rate and seriousness of offending is a central government requirement and a priority for Brighton & Hove.

The nature of offences committed, are largely crimes which are regarded as 'acquisitive crimes' and include most frequently, burglary, vehicle crime and shoplifting, the proceeds from which fund illicit drug use. These crimes have a significant impact on actual and perceived levels of safety by individuals and communities (including businesses). Reductions from successful actions to both prevent and reduce high rates of offending by prolific offenders, not only bring about changes in the behaviour and drug misuse and improved life opportunities for individual perpetrators but also significant benefits to communities in Brighton & Hove.

Current status of work

The Prolific and Priority Offender (PPO) project in Brighton & Hove was established in 2005. It is estimated that 114 offenders will have been engaged in the scheme between January 2005 and March 2008. Sustaining this successful project will continue to reduce rates of offending and of the long term drug misuse of those offenders.

PPO work was the subject of a Local Public Service Agreement. The targets set through this Agreement have been exceeded with steep drops in offending rates before and after joining the scheme. Monitoring of offenders who commenced intensive supervision from April 2006, has shown that for the 15 who have completed 12 months at liberty, there has been an 83% reduction in convictions. An overall measure of acquisitive crime has shown a year on year decline since the scheme began, with an 11.4% reduction achieved in 2007/08 compared with 2006/07.

The Brighton & Hove multi-agency project which closely monitors and targets the offenders and which has achieved the good results described above, complies with national good practice in that it incorporates three elements of 'Prevent and Deter': 'Catch and Convict' and 'Rehabilitate and Resettle'. There is therefore a focus on:

- > Preventing young people from becoming offenders and deterring young people who are already within the criminal justice system from becoming prolific offenders
- > Ensuring effective and prompt investigation, charging and prosecution of adult offenders with a swift recall to prison should they re-offend
- > Assessing needs and offering as an alternative, engagement with services including drug treatment and health interventions, education, training and employment opportunities, assistance with housing and other opportunities.

Where next?

For the period 2008-11, central government has included a national indicator on prolific offenders within the set of 198 indicators on which all local authority areas are required to report. In Brighton & Hove we are seeking to include this within the prioritised subset of 35 indicators which will be subjected to negotiations with central government over their targeted level. Although the definition of who is to be considered a PPO is decided locally the way in which it is measured is defined by central government, and the stringency of the target attached to this indicator is subject to negotiation with the government local office. At time of writing is still to be agreed.

Links to other priority areas

Due to the prevalence of substance misuse among PPOs, this area of work is closely linked to that around acquisitive crime, illicit drugs, alcohol misuse and children and young people.

Implications for sustainability

Because prolific offenders are responsible for a disproportionate amount of crime, they also have a significant effect on fear of crime and overall levels of crime. Preventing young people from entering the criminal justice system and concentrating resources on those young people and adults who are committing high numbers of crimes has the potential to divert them from offending, improve their life opportunities and enhance the quality of life for residents and visitors in the city.

Priority and Prolific Offenders Action Plan

Outcome Sought 1

Prolific and Priority Offenders

Procedures for managing identified all prolific and priority offenders are in place
Actions
1.1 Prolific and priority offenders to be monitored and tracked through the stages of liberty, voluntary rehabilitation, proactive targeting by the police, entry into the criminal justice system, supervision in the community, custody and enforcement proceedings. Their level of risk to the community also monitored.
1.2 Resources prioritised to enable the management and supervision schemes to be fully operational and effective, particularly in the provision of dedicated police and probation officers
1.3 PPOs who are under active supervision in the community to be monitored and tracked and successful completions or other outcomes to be considered by the Supervision Scheme.
Outcome Sought 2
Young people are prevented and deterred from entering the criminal justice system
Actions
2.1 Prioritised the delivery of a full range of protective and preventative programmes and interventions which reduce the risk factors experienced by young people (as set out in Children's Service Plan and the 'Every Child Matters' outcomes, the Children and Young People's Prevention Strategy and the 'Staying Safe' and 'Be Healthy' action plans).
2.2 Enable children and young people, in particular those who are at risk of developing offending behaviours, to benefit from early intervention initiatives, including Parenting Programmes, the Targeted Youth Service and the 'Challenge and Support' youth crime prevention work
2.3 Work to consistent systems of referral, assessment and intervention targeted to those most in need and the 'at risk' group of young offenders.
Outcome Sought 3
Young people who are in the criminal justice system and are persistent offenders, commit a reduced number of offences
Actions
3.1 The YOT to identify the most high priority prolific offenders through the ASSET assessment tool, fully consider their circumstances within individual supervision and the YOT Management of Serious Harm Group, prioritise these young people for delivery of interventions and refer into the PPO management group, if necessary.
3.2 Identify interventions that will 'make a difference', highlight gaps in services and barriers which prevent young offenders accessing mainstream services. Maximise arrangements with schools, Connexions and the Learning and Skills Council.
3.3 Draw up exit strategies for those completing YOT interventions to ensure that presenting risk factors are addressed.
3.4 Offer all offenders the opportunity of restorative justice interventions, as appropriate
3.5 Improve outcomes for targeted offenders in terms of accommodation, health, family support, education training and employment.
3.6 Ensure all (prolific) offenders have maximum opportunities to engage with/enter education, training and employment
Outcome Sought 4
PPOs are prioritised through the criminal justice system and timeliness is improved
Actions
4.1 The court service, police, Crown Prosecution Service, Youth Offending Team, probation and prison service to work in close partnership to achieve the above outcome.

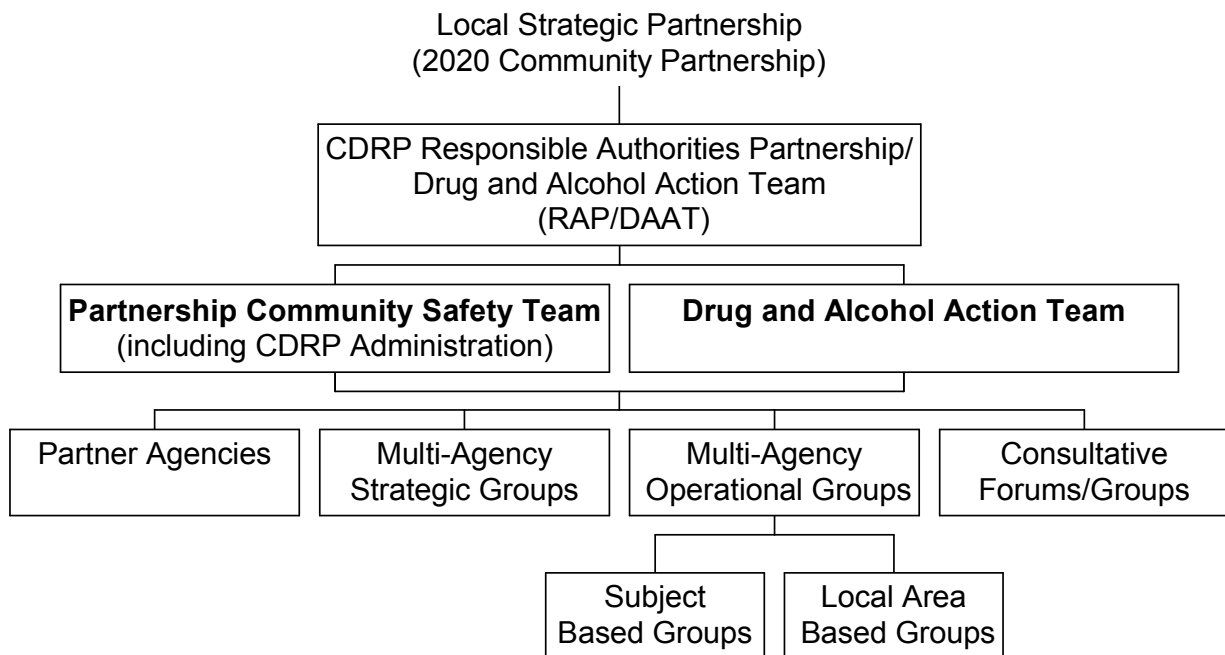

Brighton & Hove Community Safety, Crime Reduction and Drugs Strategy 2008-11

4.2 Monitor numbers of PPOs who are charged and brought to justice against key indicators.
4.3 Reduce timescales from arrest to sentence.
4.4 Reduce number of PPOs who are released without charge and the number of PPO cases that do not result in a conviction because the last trial was ineffective.
Outcome Sought 5
Improved status, engagement and personal circumstances of offenders in the areas of housing, health and education
Actions
5.1 Work to an approved scoring method to assess status and circumstances.
5.2 Local services and agencies prioritise housing, healthcare (mental/physical), drug and alcohol services, benefits/finances, education, training, employment and other provisions for PPOs – and their families.
5.3 Set outcomes and targets for each PPO within an agreed rehabilitation plan which includes actions to address the causes of their offending behaviour and their attitudes to offending behaviours as well as those which will help accommodation to be sustained.
5.4 Increase the number of PPOs who engage in and are retained in treatment.
5.5 Increase the number of PPOs in employment by the end of their intervention.

About the Partnership

The Crime and Disorder Act 1998 specifies that community safety strategies must be carried out through Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnerships (CDRPs). The statutory responsible authorities within CDRPs are: the police, police authorities, local authorities, fire and rescue authorities, and primary care trusts. However, the Brighton & Hove CDRP works very closely with many other partners from the statutory, community/voluntary and business sector. Local residents also play a key role.

Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnership Organisational Structure

The diagram above provides a basic organisational chart for the way in which the Brighton & Hove CDRP is structured. (A more detailed version of this chart and further information is available on our website.)

The RAP/DAAT (Responsible Authorities Partnership/Drug and Alcohol Action Team) has overall responsibility for the work of the CDRP, while each priority area within the strategy is supported by multi-agency working groups made up of specialists in the relevant area. In some areas there are also dedicated staff to drive forward the work.

The CDRP links with the democratic process through the Community Safety Forum and the Environment and Community Safety Overview and Scrutiny Committee.

Abbreviations and Terminology

- NI National Indicator. There are 198 National Performance Indicators (across all areas of business) defined by the government which all local areas must measure and report on. A collection of up to 35 of these National Indicators and targets are chosen by negotiation between local areas and the area Government Office to reflect the local area's priorities. These are contained within the Local Area Agreement (LAA) 2008/9 – 2010/11 and are monitored closely. In this document National Indicators which are contained in the Brighton & Hove LAA are shown in bold type.
- LI Local Indicator. Local Indicators have been defined locally and reflect priorities where a suitable equivalent is not available in the National Indicator Set.
